Introduction

This policy was formulated by the staff of North Dublin Muslim National School in 2017/2018 in conjunction with the In-School Management Team and the Co-Managers. The ethos of the school and respect for the needs and dignity of the school's pupils are central to this policy.

Intimate Care is defined as "care tasks associated with bodily functions, body products and personal hygiene which demand direct or indirect contact with or exposure of the sexual parts of the body". (HIQA 2013) In addition to this, intimate care may also include tasks such as: help with feeding, oral care and hair care.

This policy is designed to ensure that all children attending the school, their families and school staff feel that pupils are treated with respect and that their right to privacy and dignity is upheld and actively promoted, while also ensuring that staff feel supported and safe while working with pupils. This is particularly important when dealing with the issue of Intimate Care needs.

Guiding Principles

At North Dublin Muslim National School, the following Principles guide all Intimate Care Procedures:

- It is essential that every pupil with a disability is treated as an individual when intimate care is being provided and that appropriate time is taken for intimate care.
- It should enhance the quality of life of the individual receiving care and should be provided as gently and sensitively as possible, while respecting their privacy and dignity at all times.

North Dublin Muslim National School will adhere to the basic principles which should be borne in mind when providing intimate care: (taken from HIQA Guidance 2013)

1. Individuals should give their consent prior to the provision of intimate care
2. Individuals have a right to feel safe and secure.
3. All individuals have the right to personal privacy.
4. All individuals receiving intimate care should be respected and valued as individuals. Individuals should be listened to and their views taken into account. They should be treated courteously at all times and know who is looking after them.
5. Individuals have a right to be treated with dignity and respect and a professional approach from staff when meeting their needs.
6. Individuals have the right to information and support to enable them to make appropriate choices.
7. All individuals have the right to be involved and consulted in their own intimate care to the best of their abilities.
8. Individuals have the right to be accepted for who they are, without regard to age, gender, ability, race, culture or beliefs.
9. All individuals have the right to express their views on their own intimate care and to have such views taken into account.
10. Individuals have the right to know how to complain and have their complaint dealt with.
11. An individual's personal care plan should be designed to lead to independence. Intimate care may involve touching intimate parts of an individual's body and may leave staff vulnerable to accusations of abuse. It is unrealistic to eliminate all risk but this vulnerability places an important responsibility on staff to act in accordance with agreed policies and procedures which protects all parties involved.

Good Practice Procedures

- Establishing effective working relationships with families, parents and carers is a key task to ensure each individual's needs are properly identified, understood and met.
- Plans for the provision of intimate care will be clearly recorded to ensure clarity of expectations, roles and responsibilities.
- Records will also reflect arrangements for ongoing monitoring and review of intimate care plans.
- The procedure for dealing with concerns arising from the intimate care processes will be clearly stated and understood by all those involved.
- Monitoring of plans will take place at least annually or at times of significant change.
- Wherever possible, staff will work with individuals of the same sex in providing intimate care.
- Religious and cultural values will always be taken into account.
- Staff will demonstrate their respect for the dignity, modesty and privacy of all individuals through their general demeanour, through the manner in which they address and communicate with each individual, and through discretion when discussing the individual's medical condition or treatment needs. Staff understand that lapses are unacceptable.
